

The models are finally fitted to data produced by simulating mock noisy quantum computers using the Qiskit platform. As a benchmark, we study whether the repeated effect of the fitted model reproduces the action of the repeated circuit, as illustrated below.